The Country Editor.

BY F. M. C.

It is a well known fact that it takes money to run any enterprise, no matter what its nature may be. The manner in which the business is run is invariably the gauge by which the influx of money may be measured, but in the face of all the above, which are well established principles the following authentic reasons prove beyond a possibility of a doubt that the management of a newspaper is an exception to the rule. What an exaggeration! It has been disproved hundreds of times. What a whopper! It is a clean case of our fancy; it doesn't take money to run a newspaper and whoever thinks it does, is sadly mistaken, for it can be run without any cash. It is a charitable institution; a begging concern; a highway robber; and any other old thing you want to call it.

The newspaper is a child of the air; a creature of a dream; it can go on and on when other concerns would be in the hands of a receiver and would be up with cobwebs in the windows. It takes a whole lot of wind to run a newspaper. It takes a scintillating, acrobatic imagination and a half dozen shirts and an annual railroad pass.

But money, no, no, no! Who ever was so foolish as to think it would take money to run a newspaper, in Columbia especially. Kind words are the medium that do the business for the editor and correspondent; kind words and invitations to social gatherings every once and awhile, and an occasional buggy ride on Sunday afternoon.

When you see an editor, with cash, watch him. Never give an editor money for he will pay his debts and that would never do. Then when you finally come to shuffle off this mortal coil—after having stood around for years and sneered at the newspaper man and his paper, be sure and have your wife send in for three or four copies of the paper by one of your weeping children, and when she reads the touching notice of your death, forward her to neglect to send 15 or 20 cents to the editor. It might overwhelm the poor fellow and make him feel rich. The editor knows this, and he only waits your heart felt thanks. You may say all the harsh things about him you want to, but don't worry about the editor. He will get out his paper alright and stand up for you when you run for office besides, and he will also make a great blow about your daughter's wedding—when it comes off—he will tell a half dozen lies before he gets through writing an article about the happy event. But he is not even thanked for that. The country editor will get along, the Lord only knows how, but he will get there some how.—Adair News.

Robbed at the Races.

Benjamin Davis, a traveling salesman, who resides at Lebanon, Ky., reported to the police this morning that he had been robbed of a diamond stud at the races. He values his missing stone at $175, its size being close to two carats.

He thinks he was robbed while he was cashing a winning ticket on the last race on Miss Doyle. In his enthusiasm over his winnings Mr. Davis says he paid but little attention to a well dressed man who jostled him and incidentally put his coat in his face at the same time.

Mr. Davis did not notice his loss until he had boarded a street car after the races. At that time he saw a suspicious-looking character get on the car and take a seat opposite him. When he went to put his hand on his stud to show he was on the alert he found it missing. A large rent in the bosom of his shirt showed where it had been torn from.

Mr. Davis travels for a local dry goods house. He has offered a reward of $50 for the recovery of the stud.

It is not known whether "Nigger" Ryan is in town or not. Mr. Ryan generally favors Louisville with a visit during the races.—Louisville Post.

Terrific Race With Death

"Death was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Fernandez, of Tampa, Fla., describing his fearful race with death, "as a result liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different doctors and several medicines, but got no benefit, until I began to use Electric Bitters. So wonderful was their effect, that in three days I felt like a new man, and to day I am cured of all my troubles." Guaranteed at C. J. Haydon's drug store; price 50c.

DR. RINEHART'S SUIT.

Gets a Verdict of Only $3.70 Damages Against the Southern Pacific Railroad.

It will be remembered that on the occasion of the visit of Dr. J. F. Rinehart and his family, of Oakland, Cal., to their old home at this place about a year ago they were greatly put out by the loss of their baggage. Dr. Rinehart instituted a suit for damages against the Railroad Company which has just been settled. The Tribune published at Oakland, Cal., has the following about the case:

"For the spoiling of his summer outing among friends in old Kentucky by the carelessness of the Southern Pacific in taking his baggage to Springfield, Ill., instead of Springfield, Ky., Judge Ellisworth last evening gave Dr. J. F. Rinehart a judgment against the company for $3.70. The suit was brought for $1,175 and according to the testimony of the doctor, twice this sum would not recompense him for the loss of his clothing during those few weeks.

But the court has no way of determining the intensity of a man's feelings or of fixing in dollars and cents the equivalent of his disappointment. In the language of the Missouriian the court has to be "shown" and Judge Ellisworth held that all the damage that had positively been shown was $3.70 expended for the storage of the trunk while lying at a point a thousand miles from their proper destination. That there was disappointment, loss of time and much trouble Judge Ellisworth admitted but he would not trust himself to give a judgment for such stuff unless a market value for it could be shown. The doctor stated that he had spent several days in trying to find his lost trunks and hired a rignon several occasions to take him about in looking for them. But the doctor was on his vacation and there was no pecuniary loss attaching to his quest for clothes.

It was maintained that these clothes were made expressly for this visit and that Mrs. Rinehart had planned and sewed but the Judge said: "You got them back. Show me that there were some that could not be used here and fix their value and I will allow you for them. But in the light of the testimony before me I presume they were used as there is nothing before this court to the effect that any were thrown away."

As a defense Attorney Stanley Moore for the railroad tried to show that it was not the fault of the Southern Pacific employee that the trunks with all their bright finery prepared for an outing in the Blue Grass country did not reach their destination. The trunks took a wrong switch at St. Louis and the employee at that point reading, Springfield failed to trace the rest of the routing and sent it along the Chicago and Alton line to the place he was acquainted with. It was admitted there had been carelessness and Attorney W. B. Rinehart on cross-examination tried to show that when the Southern Pacific agent at Sixteenth street wrote Springfield without placing the name of the State after it he made the first mistake. But all this in no way went to show to what extent Dr. Rinehart had been damaged and Judge Ellisworth gave him a judgment for all the loss that had been shown.

Saved by Dynamite

Sometimes, a flaming city is saved by dynamiting, a space that the fire can cross. Some times a cough hangs on so long you feel as if nothing but dynamite would cure it. Z. T. Gray of Calhoun, Ga., writes: "My wife had a very aggravated cough, which kept her awake nights. Two physicians could not help her; so the took Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, which eased her cough, gave her sleep, and finally cured her. Strictly scientific cure for bronchitis and la grippe. At C. J. Haydon's drug store, price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

Bill Cundiff Murdered.

News has just reached here stating that Bill Cundiff, the man who some years ago shot and killed Mr. T. T. Bradshaw in Adair county, was waylaid and murdered near Rowena, Russell county, last Monday afternoon. His body was found in the road riddled with buckshot. The people in the neighborhood have no idea who fired the shot. Cundiff had the reputation of being an "all round" bad man, but a foul murder has been committed.—Adair News.

Interesting Instances

In the Life of Ben Hardin, of Bardstown, the Famous Lawyer.

About three miles from Springfield on the Lebanon pike situated in a field on the John K. Wall farm is a lonely grave bearing the simple inscription "Ben Hardin, of Bardstown."

Judge L. P. Little in his life of old Ben Hardin relates the following interesting instances in the great lawyer's early career, says the Bardstown Standard.

One of the most important incidents of his early career was his marriage, March 31, 1807, to Miss Elizabeth Pendleton Barbour, daughter of Colonel Amrose Barbour, of Washington county. Colonel Barbour was a wealthy farmer, who had emigrated from Virginia some years before, and was connected by blood with the distinguished family of that State bearing his name. He was a brother of Thomas Barbour, whose sons, Philip P. and James, attained the highest civic honors. Philip P. Barbour was Speaker of the Lower House of Congress and Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, while James was Governor of Virginia, United States Senator, and Minister to the Court of St. James. The belle of all the country around was the beautiful daughter of Colonel Barbour, known to her intimate friends and admirers as "Betsy Barbour," the abbreviation common to the name Elizabeth in those days. Among the crowd of suitors who laid their hearts at her feet was young Ben Hardin, who, so she once said, compared very advantageously with the rest. His ready wit rendered him entertaining, and with his fair complexion, bright blue eyes, and hair of reddish tint, dressed handsomely, with lace ruffles on his shirt bosom, and at his wrists, falling over small, white hands, he was no uncommon suitor.

Said his wife in after years: "He was very fastidious in his dress in those days, and continued so until after our marriage, when one day as he sat busy writing the rules at his desk, he dabbled in the ink and on his paper, so much to his annoyance, that he impatiently tore it off. He would never in future wear ruffles, and gradually fell into indifference in regard to his dress."

When he commenced to study law at twenty, Betsy Barbour had plighted her faith to him, and in March, 1807, they were married. Mr. Hardin took his bride to his new home and set up housekeeping in the primitive way of the period. Whatever talents the young lawyer may possess, the beginning of his career is a strong trial to his patience and equanimity. The patronage of the public is capricious and somewhat like the wind "that bloweth where it listeth." That irresponsible entity is extremely fond of depreciating the talents of young men generally, but the bar particularly. The veriest ignoramus would cheapen the abilities of Pitt, were he suing for his favor. With some there is a tinge of criminality in being a young man.

One day, in the year 1808, while Mr. Hardin was engaged in his office, the officers of the law were passing by, having in custody one Bray charged with having committed a murder in the "Level Woods," a part of Hardin county, subsequently added to Larue. It is related that the homicide was committed in the following peculiar way: A party of young men were engaged in an all night debauch. One of the number had drunk spirits so excessively as to become insensibly drunk. An overburdened stomach finally yielded its contents. While this was going on, Bray, having some curiosity about the subject, took a candle to demonstrate by ignition whether the drunken man was discharging pure spirits. The outpouring stream caught fire and so burned the unfortunate inebriate that he died. For this the prisoner was arrested on the charge of murder. He asked of the officers having charge of him permission to consult Mr. Hardin.

During the consultation he inquired what fee would be charged and the reply was three hundred dollars. The prisoner complained of this as excessive, saying that he could get a Bardstown lawyer for that sum. That remark had a decisive effect on immediately went home and notified his wife to prepare to move to Bardstown. Within a week he was domiciled in the latter place. He had been retained in Bray's case, and the latter, after he had the services of a Bardstown lawyer.

Strictly Genuine

Most of the patent medicine testimonials are probably recited. The following notice recently appeared in the Atchison (Kan.) Globe: "Joe Tack, a well known engineer, running on the Missouri Pacific between Wichita and Kiowa, lately appeared in a big one, with a picture, and when he was in this office today we asked him about it. He says he had terrible pains in his stomach, and thought he had cancer. His druggist recommended Kodol and he says it cured him. He recommended it to others, who were also cured." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and cures all stomach troubles. Sold by all Druggists.

A Man of Destiny.

On Wednesday of this week Martin Peoples, of this city, was married to Mrs. Annie Hine, of Old Town. It requires some expert figuring to keep track of "Mart" Peoples, as a rule, and in this instance it looks like he had thrown us. On the 2d of last November the reservoir was blown or exploded; and his wife was killed. Peoples himself had to be carried to the hospital for repairs. Getting on foot again, he purchased a fine team of bays, had their tails wrapped in ribbon, and kept the mud and slush moving between Winston and Old Town. And now we find things as above stated. Now, Mart Peoples is not a bad man, but he is the worst mixed up man we ever saw. His bride was his first wife's stepmother, and hence he becomes his own daddy. He not only becomes his own daddy, but he is now his stepson's grandfather and his mother-in-law's husband, and the father of his late wife. His wife is her husband's mother and her grandchildren's mother also. But Mart Peoples can work it all out, and will no doubt give a correct answer in the wind-up. He is evidently a man of destiny.—Winston (N. C.) Guide.

Investigations Completed

Washington. — There is no foundation for reports that there may be further investigations of the offices of the Revenue Collector of Customs at Louisville. Secretary Shaw is not here, but his private secretary, J. H. Edwards, to day made this statement:

"Collector Barnett has replied that none of his men is connected with political committees. Collector Craft has informed us that all of his men who were on political committees have retired from the same. There is nothing more to be done. The answers of both gentlemen are entirely satisfactory, and the

At the Civil Service Commission it was stated today that inasmuch as Secretary Shaw is satisfied, Commissioner Green will not go to Louisville to conduct any further investigations. The promptness of Messrs. Barnett and Craft is commended. It seems that Postmaster General Cortelyou has abandoned his intention of making public the letter he has received from Dr. Baker.

SUITS FILED

Against Several Corporations For Alleged Violations of the Statute.

Commonwealth's Attorney on behalf of the State filed eight suits in the Circuit Clerk's office last Thursday against five corporations of this county for alleged failure to comply with the corporation laws of the state. The corporations involved are the First National Bank, the Peoples Deposit Bank, the Farmers' Bank, of Mackville, the Adams Express Co., and the Washington County Telephone Co.

The suits are brought on two counts against the corporations, except the two Springfield banks. The alleged cause of action against the four corporations is the charge of violation of that part of the statutes which requires any corporations doing business in the state to file with the Secretary of State a statement signed by its president or secretary giving location of its office and the name of its agents upon whom legal processes can be served. It is claimed in these petitions that none of the corporations mentioned has complied with this requirement and the petition prays for judgment for the penal sum of $1,000. The other offense alleged against all four of the corporations is failure to comply with that clause of the corporation law which requires all corporations to cause to have posted in a conspicuous place at their places of business signs giving the full name of the company or corporation and following such name.

For failure to comply with these requirements judgment for the penal sum of $500 is prayed for. The law fixes the penalty for violation of this act at a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $1,000. In the case of the First National Bank it is not thought that an action can be sustained from the fact that that institution is not a state corporation at all but is controlled by the National Banking Act and is responsible to the Federal Government.

Attempted Suicide

The attempt to commit suicide made by William T. Atchison, a railroad fireman residing in Lexington, who was impelled to the deed by the fear that his love was unrequited, has a sorrowful interest for many people of Anderson county. Miss Minnie Thacker, the lady with whom he was in love having formerly been a resident of this county and a daughter of Dan M. Thacker. Atchison had met Miss Thacker a number of times and with him, at least, it was a genuine case of love at first sight. On the day which so nearly proved fatal, Mr. Atchison had called Miss Thacker over the telephone and asked permission to call on her that evening, to which request she responded that she would be engaged in assisting her sister to entertain some other guests. Atchison then told her that he could not call on her, he would kill himself. Just at that time, the phones were accidentally disconnected, and he imagining that Miss Thacker had arbitrarily rung off, borrowed a revolver and fired the shot. The bullet entered just above the heart and passed entirely through the left lung, but, notwithstanding the wound is of the kind which is usually considered fatal, Mr. Atchison is reported to be improving and has a chance to recover. Miss Thacker is a young woman of great beauty and her many friends deeply regret the occurrence of this tragic event.—Anderson News.

Warning.

You cannot have good health unless your kidneys are sound; for the kidneys filter the blood of impurities which otherwise act as irritating poisons and break down the delicate organs of the body and cause serious trouble. If you have kidney or bladder trouble and do not use Foley's Kidney Cure, you will have only misery to blame for reality. It positively cures all forms of kidney and bladder trouble. Kentucky Crop Report

The month of April was decidedly cool. Too much so for vegetation to make a vigorous growth. The frosts about the middle of the month did quite a deal of damage especially to the peach and strawberry crop, and to early gardens. We give extracts from some of our correspondents in the several divisions of the State.

The condition of wheat has moved up two points since our April report; except in a few counties the prospect for a full crop is flattering. At one time it was thought by many that it might be damaged by the frosts. But now all agree that it was not sufficiently advanced at the time to be injured. A full crop of oats has been secured. The condition of rye is very satisfactory. The conditions of plant beds are about an average for the season. Meadows pastures and other seem to be in a satisfactory condition.

It is gratifying to know that our farmers are giving their attention to that great and useful forage plant, alfalfa. More acres of alfalfa means more and better stock. The potato crop is a full average. Live stock of all kinds are reported in good condition.

Kentucky's Best Product

Miss Wilma Bryant has been appointed by this local chapter Daughters of the Confederate re-union which meets at Louisville in June. About fifty young ladies, who are eligible to membership in the Daughters of the Confederacy, will ride just in front of the Kentucky division in the grand parade proposed to take the yellow tuckey's Best Product. Bryant, to whom it has fallen the honor of representing the section, is a handsome young lady, whose family dates back to the pioneer days and are identified with the early history of the state. Her father and uncle were both faithful soldiers in the Confederate army. She is exceedingly popular, having been chosen by Montgomery Lodge I, O. O. F., as their Queen at the Carnival two years ago. She will be an honor to the chapter she represents.—Harrodsburg Herald.

Backache is never known to persons who take an occasional dose of Pinetone. The virtue of this obtained from the Pine tree has been recognized in the treatment of diseases of the bladder and kidneys. One dose of Pinetone will give relief and one bottle will cure. Sold at Haydon's Pharmacy.

Seriously Hurt

On Thursday last, just as John Cook and Thomas Gillis, two well known citizens of the Tamm Springs neighborhood were driving into town in a spring wagon, a pony which they were driving suddenly stopped and began kicking. The two men tried to get out of the wagon, but the seat gave way, and Mr. Gillis fell down between the shafts under the heels of the infuriated animal. In trying to free himself from the harness the pony kicked Mr. Gillis about the head, tearing the flesh from his face and breaking his jaw in two places. A son of Mr. Cook, who was driving a horse hitched to a buggy, thinking his father was about to be killed, jumped from the buggy to run to his assistance, and when the pony had gotten loose and started to run, the horse ran away also, but was caught by a lady living some distance from the scene of the accident. (The pony was going toward Fox Creek, still running when last heard from Mr. Gillis; injuries were dressed by a physician and he was taken home the same evening.—Anderson News.
